

POINTS IN WHAT PRESIDENT WILL TELL CONGRESS TODAY

President Wilson will go before Congress today and present to it the German-American situation in the following manner, according to high officials in Washington.

WILSON WILL TELL CONGRESS TODAY BREACH SEEMS SURE

von Papen had been indicted and did not relate to that. Indeed, the Count on leaving the Department said that he had come to discuss the general submarine situation, but had found Mr. Lansing unwilling to discuss it and generally uncommunicative.

From the Ambassador's point of view the conversation was most unsatisfactory. With his customary optimism he said he did not regard the situation as serious. But he let it be known that he had found Mr. Lansing unresponsive. In one quarter it was even said that Count von Bernstorff had let himself be misled by the impression that Germany could not discontinue the submarine warfare, but intended to continue it according to international law.

He replied that Germany had always been ready to go nine-tenths of the way to meet the United States, and that this willingness continued.

What the Ambassador had to say to Mr. Lansing made little impression. It has been suggested that documentary evidence found when Von Igel was arrested, and which is understood to include both the Ambassador's and his subordinates, might have explained the chilliness of Mr. Lansing's reception to the Ambassador.

The United States at present takes the unsatisfactory German note on the Sussex incident as Germany's latest word. Apparently Count von Bernstorff is to raise doubts and suggest more friendly interpretations of that document, and lead Mr. Lansing into a general discussion of the situation. But all his efforts were unavailing.

When the Count left the State Department he said he knew nothing of the terms of the proposed American communication, and it was some time afterward that he learned to his surprise that the President would take the matter to Congress.

There was no delay in either house in adopting the concurrent resolution for the meeting of the Senate and the House to receive the President's communication.

Both Senators and Congressmen were surprised later when they heard what the purpose of the President was.

GERMANY HEARS WILSON WILL SEND ULTIMATUM

BERLIN, April 19.—Alarmist reports continue to come from America, the reports reflecting the President Wilson is about to send an ultimatum to Germany threatening a diplomatic break unless the whole submarine war is abandoned.

M'NICHOL AND MAYOR MEET AGAIN TODAY IN PARTY PEACE PARLEY

Negotiations, Begun Yesterday for Union of Rival Brumbaugh and Penrose Factions, Will Be Continued

SMITH AS PEACEMAKER

A second conference to bring about harmony between the warring factions of the Republican Organization will be held today by Senator James P. McNichol and Mayor Smith in the Mayor's office.

Senator McNichol this morning announced that another confab had been arranged.

"I expect to meet the Mayor again today and discuss harmony with him again," said McNichol.

The conference held yesterday, at which the Mayor, acting as peacemaker, between the rival Brumbaugh and Penrose factions, and which was attended by Senators McNichol and Vane and Speaker Charles A. Ambler, Brumbaugh-Vare candidate for Auditor General, only paved the way for compromise negotiations, it has been learned.

No definite conclusions were reached, the discussion of harmony having been confined to a general review of the situation, according to those who participated.

NOT ALL ROSY. Senator McNichol today indicated that the move toward harmony might not be as successful as he at first hoped.

"We are talking harmony," he said, "but you want to look up the definition of harmony in the dictionary."

He added the following significant statement: "I've always been for harmony, but my friends have gone ahead and are prepared for war as well as for peace."

Both factions last night filed complete tickets of candidates for nearly every office to be filled at the election this year, and if the harmony conference had been successful, there would be a record withdrawal of candidates before Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the last hour for withdrawing.

Partial harmony has been brought about already. In Pittsburgh a harmony slate of district delegates to the Republican National Convention has been filed in Philadelphia, a harmony agreement had been reached on district delegates in four of the six Congressional districts.

WHO MADE OVERTURES? These two harmony agreements are being used in the opening wedge in the effort to bring about peace in the Organization in the city and State.

It is still a mystery who made the overtures for peace. In the Case-Brumbaugh fight, McNichol asserted today that Senator McNichol, acting for Senator Penrose, was the first to ask the Mayor to use his efforts to unite the factions.

Von Igel is at liberty in $20,000 bail. The German Embassy promptly demanded the return of papers and documents seized by agents of the Department of Justice in New York from the office formerly occupied by Captain Franz von Papen, and later by von Igel. At the same time the Embassy requested the release of Wolf von Igel.

Counselor Polk, of the State Department, to whom the representations were made at once advised the Department of Justice to return the papers and to free von Igel, unless the offense alleged against him was committed before he became a member of the Embassy staff.

Von Igel, however, was liberated only in the usual way, by bonds.

There was a rumor last night that the State Department had sent an order here for von Igel's release. Officials denied receipt of any such order. Moreover, while it became immediately evident that Count von Bernstorff was keenly interested, no federal official here entertained the slightest belief he could effect anything.

The claim is advanced by Count von Bernstorff that von Igel had been carried on the list of diplomats accredited to Germany since last December and was entitled to diplomatic immunity and his documents along with him.
